Dear Sirs;

I have in my possession an old coin dated 1764 and am anxious to know if it is of any value and if ^{po} what ~~its~~ value is.

If it is of value will you give me names of possible purchasers.

I am enclosing a tracing of the coin so as to give you an idea of appearance.

Thanking you ,

Sincerely,
Mrs Earl W. Israel.

Coin is very common,
worth about 75¢ there is hardly any market for it

Dear Madam:

The coin of which you sent a tracing, is of a common variety, and is not worth more than about seventy-five cents. There is hardly any market for such.

Yours very truly,

Asst. Curator.
